PREFACE

THE object of this work, containing approximately 1,438 registered and 2,423 unregistered trade names, making a total of 3,861, has been to record all trade names in use in the United States and those registered at the United States Patent Office, Washington, D. C., to the end that duplication may be avoided. This has taken considerable time and work, with no small amount of expense, and while we do not guarantee its accuracy, all due precaution has been taken to make it authentic.

At the Convention held in 1908 it was recommended that the Committee on Fraternal Relations, in issuing future editions of Trade Names, include all trade names of perfumes and toilet articles in use in the United States, including geographical names, and excluding only names of common flowers.

Where two or more firms are using the same trade name, we have endeavored to ascertain priority of use and where we received such information from two or more firms, have indicated priority by letters (a), (b), (c), i. e., (a) denoting first user, etc.

Information can be obtained from this Committee as to the articles trade names are being used for, and we invite inquiries regarding trade names, so that the members of the Association might receive full benefit of the data which we have collected.

ALEXANDER D. HENDERSON,

Chairman, Committee on Fraternal Relations.

NEW YORK, N. Y., December, 1908.

Supplement No. 1

Seventh
Edition
Of
Trade
Names

APRIL 1st, 1915

COMPILED BY
The Manufacturing Perfumers' Association
OF THE UNITED STATES

Before new labels are ordered, you should inquire whether your trade name conflicts with other registrations.

In applying for registration of an old trade name, label must be submitted. If for a new name, and it does not conflict with previous registration, such application will be placed in a "waiting list;" pending the receipt of the new label, when the registration will be regularly noted in the next quarterly supplement.

Names being held in the waiting list will give the applicant all rights and protection, but will only be so held for a reasonable time, awaiting receipt of copy.

Address Committee on Fraternal Relations.
